

WILSON HAS RETURNED TO "GAY PAREE"

PRESIDENT AND WIFE ESCORTED TO CHANNEL TRAIN BY KING GEORGE AND WIFE THIS MORNING.

ENGLISH VISIT IS OVER

Despite Inclement Weather There Were Great Numbers of People in the Streets to Say Good Bye.

London, Dec. 31.—President and Mrs. Wilson left Victoria Station at 9.15 this morning on a special train en route to France. King George and Queen Mary and the Duke of Cornwall accompanied them to the station. Mrs. Wilson, who was seated next to the president, was surrounded by a throng of admirers who were pulling out the king and queen waving their handkerchiefs and hand playing as it left the station.

Morning Dark. It was a dark and rainy morning when the president and his wife left Buckingham Palace and the station and the procession passed. President Wilson and King George were in the first carriage. Mrs. Wilson, Queen Mary, John W. Davis, vice in the second, and members of the president's party and court officials were in three other carriages.

Inspected Guard. Mr. Wilson and King George inspected the guard while the band played the "Star Spangled Banner." President and Mrs. Wilson bade farewell to King George, Queen Mary and the Duke of Cornwall. The president and his wife then took their leave of Premier Lloyd George, Andrew Bonar Law, Lord Robert Cecil and Sir Eric Geddes who were at the station.

As Queen Mary and Mrs. Wilson, followed by President Wilson and King George left the waiting room, the band played the "Star Spangled Banner" and the president and his wife waved their hands from the platform.

With Mr. and Mrs. Wilson en route to Dover, were Lord Harschell, Sir John W. Davis, vice admiral Stans, Rear Admiral Caryl T. Grayson, Major General John Biddle, Colonel William W. Harts and Miss Edith Bentham, secretary to Mrs. Wilson.

Animated Conversation. Queen Mary and Mrs. Wilson carried on an animated conversation to the last moment. President Wilson and King George remained on the bridge until the train left.

Sailed at 11:20. Dover, England, Dec. 31.—President Wilson and his party sailed from Dover for Calais at 11:20 o'clock this morning. The presidential train reached Dover at 11 o'clock and a little time was spent in boarding the steamer Brighton which set out almost immediately on the cross channel trip. The morning was cold and raw with sharp frosts. The president and his wife were accompanied by a company of royal footiers and blue jackets from the Dover patrol was lined up to greet the party.

The president was accompanied by Commander Boylston, secretary to Vice Admiral Sir Roger Keyes. The receiving party were others in the receiving party, Major Admiral Cecil W. Dampier, Major General C. G. MacKenzie and the Marquis of Camden. They accompanied the presidential party to the pier where President Wilson and his wife were met by a company of royal footiers and blue jackets from the Dover patrol.

As the Brighton passed out of the harbor her naval escort took positions on either side and the president and his wife were met by a company of royal footiers and blue jackets from the Dover patrol.

Telegrams To King. As the Brighton passed out of the land, the king and queen were met by a company of royal footiers and blue jackets from the Dover patrol.

RELEASE OF SINN FEINERS EXPECTED

London, Dec. 31.—The release of all the Sinn Fein prisoners in England is expected virtually at once. Count Plunkett, one of the Sinn Fein leaders, is expected to be released in the next few days.

VICTOR L. BERGER ON WITNESS STAND

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Dec. 31.—Victor L. Berger, congressman elect from Milwaukee, took the witness stand in his own defense at the opening of today's session of the trial of himself and four other socialist leaders on charges of conspiracy to violate the anti-sedition law. All the other defendants have preceded him.

Attestations that Senator La Follette of Wisconsin might be called as a witness in the trial of the five socialist leaders for alleged violation of the espionage law were neither confirmed nor denied by attorneys for the defendants today. Governor Philipp of Wisconsin having been called as a witness for Victor L. Berger, one of the defendants and congressman-elect from Milwaukee, it was current about the federal building where the trial is in progress that Senator La Follette might also be called as a witness for Berger.

Berger told the story of socialism in America and his own anti-war activities as a leader of the socialist party. Nervous at first, the witness soon regained his composure. An account which was explained by his opening testimony to the effect that he was born in Austria, and was twenty years of age when he came with his parents to this country.

He settled at Bridgeport, Conn., and followed various occupations, including that of a metal polisher. He was a socialist for many years ago and for nine years was a public school teacher. Later he became a writer for "Vorwarts," a German language socialist paper.

A Socialist in 1881. He said his conversion to socialism took place in 1881. In those days, he said, there was great rivalry between the socialists and the anarchists. He was a socialist in 1881 and a public debate between the visitor and a leading socialist was held at that time.

He traced the development of the socialist movement from 1880 to 1897. In the latter year he and others, he said, were in the first socialist party in America. He said he was a socialist in 1881 and a public debate between the visitor and a leading socialist was held at that time.

ATTITUDE OF PEASANTS IN REGION OF MOSCOW ALARMS GOVERNMENT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Paris, Dec. 31 (Havas).—The attitude of the peasants in the region of Moscow is alarming the Russian government, according to the Petrograd correspondent of the Journal. Early in December, he reports, the peasants actively revolted and it was a week before they were subdued.

The Bolshevik red guard broke down opposition with the utmost severity. The peasants were poorly armed and were in large numbers. Numerous villages, the correspondent adds, were razed by artillery, and large numbers of peasants were massacred. The peasants, however, their correspondent continues, maintain their attitude of opposition to the Bolsheviks.

I tried to persuade him to comply with the law but did not succeed. The Milwaukee Leader was excluded from the mails in 1917 and Berger told of efforts to have the ban raised.

Vice Admiral Sims Will Head Naval War College at Newport

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Dec. 31.—Vice Admiral Sims will be assigned as president of the naval war college at Newport, Rhode Island, according to the official dispatch to the Mail under date of Saturday.

Refused Access. The Poles have refused to accede to the demand of the Poles that Polish troops be permitted to use the railroads from the Polish border to Vienna, according to Warsaw advices to the Mail.

He meantime, it is said that the Germans have demanded that German troops returning from Russia be allowed to use Polish railroads. It was urged by Berlin that 100,000 German soldiers would otherwise be compelled to march through Poland.

Many Arrests. Seventeen prominent men were arrested here last night by the police, assisted by members of the local soldiers council. The arrests caused considerable excitement.

Only Two Held. This forenoon it was learned that all but two of the men arrested had been released. These were a publisher and a banker who is considered the ringleader in the alleged plot.

Des Moines, Iowa, Dec. 31.—Warning of a blizzard over Iowa tonight and tomorrow, the federal weather bureau here predicted today the temperature would fall to five degrees below zero in the central part of the state.

Grand Forks, N. D., Dec. 31.—The first blizzard of the season was expected here tonight and tomorrow. The blizzard continued during the night and morning, blowing a gale of 28 miles drifted the snow in huge piles both within the city and in the outlying sections.

With a temperature of 5 below zero and a strong wind the weather proved extremely disagreeable. Rural traffic was completely blocked. Today's temperature ranged from 26 to 20 below zero.

ENGLISH NEWSPAPER URGES GATHERING OF PEACE CONFERENCE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Manchester, Dec. 31.—Commenting on President Wilson's visit and urging the necessity of the assembling of the peace conference without further delay the Guardian today says: "While we are taking and demonstrating others are acting and by no means acting in a sense favorable to the translation of the ideal into the practical and the establishment of a rule of justice and good will among the nations of the earth."

"Italy is creating accomplished facts on the eastern shore of the Adriatic. The general military and naval situation, which, not content with the recovery of Alsace and Lorraine and the happy healing of that historic sore, threatens to create a fresh sore by annexation beyond its borders. Even now the claims are being influentially asserted not only to Luxemburg, but to sundry portions of Dutch territory on her northern and eastern borders. Poland is threatened and perhaps actually has occupied Danzig, a German city with a mere sprinkling of Poles and thus to cut off east Prussia from west Prussia, and apparently the desire for purely German territory further west and south."

The Guardian concludes: "Now this is obviously not exactly conforming to either the spirit or the letter of President Wilson's, but it is an attempt to forestall the decisions of the conference when it meets and must tend gravely to hamper its work."

Refused Access. The Poles have refused to accede to the demand of the Poles that Polish troops be permitted to use the railroads from the Polish border to Vienna, according to Warsaw advices to the Mail.

EIGHTEEN BILLIONS USED BY UNCLE SAM DURING PAST YEAR

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Dec. 31.—It cost the American people about $18,160,000,000 to run its expensive war government and make loans to the allies in the year ending today, according to computations from treasury reports.

December expenditures above two billion dollars, the record of the nation's history, set aggregate war costs to date to approximately 24,500,000,000.

Of the $18,160,000,000 probably ten billion dollars went for the army and the general military establishment. The balance two billion dollars for navy, a billion for other civil government needs and $4,500,000,000 as loans to American brothers in arms.

That the public has paid only about one third of the war's expenses excluding foreign loans, in taxes in the year ending today, is a remarkable fact in another generation, is indicated by Treasury figures of collections from various sources.

ITALIAN DEAD WILL APPROACH THE HALF MILLION MARK NOW

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Rome, Dec. 31.—The supreme command of the Italian army has announced that Italian losses on all fronts in the war totaled 450,000 dead.

Of this number 14,352 were officers. Of the 435,648 wounded 33,347 were officers. The number of men totally incapacitated by wounds and disease is estimated at 500,000.

To Gamble With the FIRE FIEND Is BAD BUSINESS!

There are FIVE AND ONE-HALF MILLION FIRES in America EVERY YEAR.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED fires are reported to the National Board of Underwriters EVERY DAY!

Who's next?

You do not KNOW. No man can say. Take no CHANCES! PROTECT your property AGAINST FIRE LOSS!

No HOUSEHOLDER should neglect insuring his VALUABLES. No MANUFACTURER should neglect insuring his shop or FACTORY. No BUSINESSMAN should neglect insuring his place of business for an ADEQUATE SUM against the possibility of RUIN by fire.

Are you now WITHOUT insurance on your PROPERTY?

Don't REST IN YOUR BED until you HAVE CORRECTED this mistake!

Are you CARRYING insurance?

INCREASE your LINE! Bring the valuation up to day!

Property insured at valuations of two or three years ago are VALUED TOO LOW! Should they BURN DOWN or be PARTIALLY DESTROYED, you could never REPLACE them out of INDEMNITIES based on valuations of OTHER DAYS.

There's been an ADVANCE in PROPERTY values of at least FORTY PER CENT on an average in all GROWING American cities within the last THREE YEARS.

Where does this fact LEAVE YOU? Look INTO the matter AT ONCE! Before the SUN GOES DOWN AGAIN, have this detail of FIRE INSURANCE brought UP TO DATE!

Get in touch with a reputable AGENCY at once. Phone for a MAN. Put yourself OUT to MEET him. Don't WAIT! Don't VACILLATE! It's a GOOD THING TO DO—do it AT ONCE! Better to be SAFE than SORRY!

Any one of the following standard fire underwriters in this district will be glad for an opportunity to SERVE you. You'll find the TELEPHONE NUMBER BELOW—opposite the NAME. Call the agent you want, and arrange for ADEQUATE PROTECTION!

THE NEW YEAR.

Before another sunrise "Nineteen Eighteen" will have ceased to exist and we will have welcomed the glad new year of promise—Nineteen Nineteen.

Nineteen Nineteen looms up with more than ordinary promise of change which human nature so confidently ascribes to a period of the dawn of miracles.

The strain of the weary months of the war, the uncertainty of results,
the final victory that came after the invaluable advance of the American troops on the actual fighting line are over.

In their place we look to the future,
to Nineteen Nineteen, to the heightened prestige of the United States, as a world power, to the deepened sympathy and better understanding of ideals throughout the world in the year to come.

We have cemented our bond of friendship with France. Our best have gone forth to fight for them and the cause of democracy, and now comes a better understanding between England and the United States,
a sentiment in which the English themselves are first to forward. Our soldier boys who are returning to us will in many cases not go back to their old positions. They have broadened and become rugged adventurers, united for the little pursuits that kept them occupied before they donned the khaki. They will seek new fields to conquer, like Alexander of old, and we must prepare for them.

The war work of the past twelve months has brought labor and capital into closer union than ever before.
We will not be surprised to see the coming year further cement these bonds we have woven through the troublesome war days into a perpetual policy of delecting all talk of class hated and playing masses against the classes so much indulged in of late years by unscrupulous persons.

The soldier comes back to us with a cleaner and clearer understanding of the problems of life than when he entered the service months ago. It is the soldier and the soldier will go hand in hand and the great work of the Red Cross, of the Y. M. C. A., of the War Community movements, of the various religious denominations with their camp chaplains and Knights of Columbus and Salvation Army have shown us the power of prejudice has nothing else could have done.

The new aristocracy that comes to us with the new year is not one of wealth, but the true judgment of the real worth of the man and what he stands for and what he can accomplish. There will be no sharp distinction between the rich man or the poor man, for the world will depend upon a truer stage of world-wide democracy that comes with the distinction of the service, both those who have actually served and those at home who have done their share.
This is one of the important heritages of the departing year to its successor.

We have demonstrated to the world
the supremacy of our medical sources. We have developed new fields of activity for the Red Cross, have moulded the various nationalities that go to make up the population of our federation of states, into one compact organization and nationally—American. A new spirit of patriotism has sprung up never to die,
and today we know the future children of this new race will be stronger and better, for we have made our soldier boys better fathers and at home
our girls better mothers.

The dying year has handed down to us the lesson in thrift and saving that has come to us. The lesson of thrift was not new to many, but it was a lesson that we all need to remember. Economy is one of the fortunate by-products that this great struggle has given to us and we may expect a new era of mental awakening, a greater independence of thought. We will have new Banisters, Spencers, Carvies, Darwins to give to us the real message of the future.

The dying year soon to pass into the realms of yesterday has brought sorrow to many and grief and suffering. Aside from the war we have been visited at home by a great plague, the effects of which are even now felt. Yet to the world as a whole it has purged itself of an element of danger which should never be a mention to future thought and ideals. We bid farewell to the dying year, but with the voice of the courier we hail the new.

"Le Roi est mort? Vive Le Roi!"

BELGIUM.

"The official statement which came from the Belgian embassy in Washington, some time ago, to the effect that Belgium intended no longer to submit to the status of guaranteed
neutrality which she occupied before the war, was commonly recognized as a very necessary first step by the government of the little kingdom," says
the Christian Science Monitor. "Since that time, the Belgian government has,
through various channels, been making known its general policy, and it is now quite evident that one of the nation's chief demands will be the complete reviving of that very doubtful Treaty of London of 1839,
by which her present position was established. The treaty of 1839 was very much a treaty of the old order.
The powers which were part to it were theoretically the founders of Belgium. They had taken Belgium's part against Holland, and it was due to their intervention that Belgium was able to obtain the dissolution of those bands, forged at the Congress of Vienna fifteen years before, which bound her to Holland.

"The treaty was, however, most distinctly favorable to Holland and unfavorable to Belgium. Not only did it deprive Belgium of the right bank of the Schelde at its mouth, but it also created the long arm of Dutch Lim-burg along the Maas, practically forming an enclave in Belgian territory to which a few miles of Liege,

the ostensible object being the protection of Belgium's neutrality. There has never been any question that both of these adjustments were of a purely arbitrary nature, and the completeness with which they failed, four and a half years ago, to afford Belgium any protection from a German invasion is a matter of history. On the other hand, the fact that both the right and left banks of the great estuary of the Schelde were in the possession of a neutral power effectually
bottled up Antwerp in the early days of the war, and prevented any attempt by the allies to effect its relief from the sea.

"Now those who have carefully observed Belgium's attitude, ever since the armistice was signed last month,
bringing to an end her terrible experience of the past four and a half years, must have been struck by the moderation of her views. The treaty of 1839 was really rendered null and void the moment Germany, one of the signatory powers, crossed the frontier with her armies in August, 1914. It was broken again, whether or not with the consent of Holland it may not yet be possible to determine, when the retreating Germans, a few weeks ago, marched across Dutch Limburg back into their own country. It has failed of its purpose in securing the neutrality of Belgium, and its very existence has manifestly contributed largely to the difficulties of the allies
in their war against Germany, as far as Belgium was concerned. The treaty, in fact, no longer exists, and the Belgian government is only acting within its full right when it points out the injustices which it contained, and thus takes steps to prevent any demand for its re-enactment."

THE REDS.

Indications are that the Reds are now in control of the government of Germany. It would not be surprising but as long as Von Hindenburg remains as the head of the great army of the Reich, and yet in actual control, recuperating as it were with its divisions and its army corps intact,
we must read with a grain of salt
of the wonderful victory of the exten-
sionists in Berlin in handling the governmental affairs. Perhaps the Reds do control today, but in the end it will be seen that the hand of Prussia and Germany, and in the end we may find strange conditions in Berlin and throughout Germany. Von Hindenburg is not in control of the military for any purposes that may further the allies' plans, and it is safe to predict
it will be long, weary months before those troops that are now on guard at the Rhine are entirely through with their service.

Chicago has a new chief of police and that of all, is a soldier and a disciplinarian. He lost his place in the army because he was the latter,
and now Chicago benefits by his experience. One of his initial steps has been to issue orders to the criminals of his bailiwick they must behave and obtain from crime during his term
of office.

Press dispatches have failed thus far to designate any one individual as an "Egg King," but from the way the prices have been kept up to the fever pitch instead of a simple king there must be an "Egg Kaiser" somewhere in the background.

One of the epochs of these pre-peace days has been the entertainment of President Wilson at Buckingham palace. It is one of the signs that indicates that royalty is waking up to the claims of democracy.

What is to be done with Russia?
That is one of the problems this coming peace conference will leave unsettled. Perhaps the method of dry-cleaning the Bolsheviks may be attempted.

There is one unanswered statement.
The United States senate has the right of unlimited debate, so why should there be any objection to what they desire to talk about?

London holidays were enjoyed this year principally owing to the fact the residents did not have to dodge air raids just when they started enjoying themselves.

From the defunct German empire
her people inherit a vast lot of bad debts and the habit of seeking to avoid payment of all responsibilities.

Germany hopes to have a meal ticket at least even if it did not win the war with all the honors that they expected to.

THE WATCH ON THE RHINE

(Revised Version)

The voice, now very like a seagull,
Which tried to ape a thunder peal,
Now whimpers o'er the Holland line:
"Who guards today my stream divine?"

Chorus
Oh, croon Bill, we've heard you
whine,
Firm stand the Yanks to watch the Rhine.

So long as we possess a gun,
Along the banks no sign to Hun
shall strut or let his bosom swell.
We'll guard our sacred landmark well.

Chorus
Dear Fatherland, Jack Pershing's line
Of Yankee troops will watch the Rhine.

The Hun has given up the ghost, Pulled down his flag and ceased to boast,
And now of him there's not a sign
For thirty miles beyond the Rhine.

Chorus
Dear Fatherland, great luck is thine
To have the Yankees watch the Rhine.

Our oaths resounds, the river flows,
And over it Old Glory glows,
The stream is free and looking fine,
And all is lovely on the Rhine.

Chorus
Oh, Fatherland, just fall in line
And watch the Yankees watch the Rhine.

WHAT A DOLLAR USED TO DO.
Back in the old burg a dollar was quite a piece of money and it made a regular noise. Nowadays it doesn't make any more noise than a feather falling on plush carpet in the house
next door.

Regarding cats, a dollar used to speak with some authority. We remember when the members of our frat back in the old town decided to give a dinner party. There were to be forty at the party, and the committee went and laid the plans before Lem Higgins, proprietor of the O. K. restaurant. The menu was to be rather elaborate for our town, including stuffed celery, grilled chicken, endive salad, tri-colored ice cream and coffee.

We asked Lem if he could do it
for $2.

Lem figured on it for a day or two and then told the committee he could furnish the layout for $2.15, but he couldn't do it for a cent less. "I would like to accommodate you boys,"
he said, "but the chickens alone will cost me nearly $2, although I raise them myself."

He didn't know that we meant $2
a plate. He thought the $2 was for the whole feed.

When we paid him the $50 he refused to private life and gave the restaurant to his nephew.

Dropping the Pilot

At midnight tonight we drop the old pilot and take on a new one. The old year, the most memorable one in the history of the world is now a memory and 1919 is here with a brand new set of opportunities and let us look it square in the eye and determine to make it the best and happiest we have seen.

Our Best Wishes for You

First of all we wish you the very best of health; given that and a body can meet the blows of fate with a smile.

We wish you a few real friends to back you up in your reverses and to help celebrate your victories, for any real friend is worth more than an army of acquaintances.
And, lastly, we wish for you the good judgment that enables one to magnify one's good fortune and ignore one's bad fortune. Both kinds come to all of us but the really happy person is he who refuses to be unhappy. May this be your fortunate lot.

PLAN NEW ADDITION TO MERCY HOSPITAL

PROPOSED PROJECT WILL BE THOROUGHLY DISCUSSED AT MEETING OF HOSPITAL DIRECTORS NEXT MONTH

HOLD ANNUAL MEET

Regular Yearly Meeting Held at Hospital Yesterday—Financial Report for 1918 Shows Small Balance on Hand.

Directors of Mercy Hospital at their next meeting to be held the latter part of January will consider the building of a new addition as well as ways and means of financing the same. This was made known at the regular meeting of the board of directors which was held yesterday afternoon at the hospital, directors, O. Kasper, N. J. Carle, F. P. Crook, W. H. Dougherty and Rev. Dean Kelly being present. The necessity for more room at the hospital has long been a subject for discussion and whether anything will be done towards constructing the addition next year depends on the adjourned meeting which will be held next month.

The following financial report of the hospital was audited and ordered published:

Receipts.
1917, Balance on Hand De.	473.58
December 1, 1917	2,534.08
January	1,744.71

August	2,501.85
September	2,244.02
October	2,245.02
November	4,235.86
Total	$39,635.23

Disbursements.
From December 1, 1917 to December 1, 1918.
Bread	$ 625.96
Butter	728.91
Books	74.25
Bolles	37.11
Carpentry and Lumber	5,388.20

Telephone	120.80
Water	331.63
War Savings Stamps	12.51
Total	$38,619.90

It will be noted that the disbursements total almost as much as the receipts but fortunately the balance, though small is on the right hand side of the ledger and reflects gain to the hospital. The balance in view of the prevailing high prices for all supplies used by a hospital.

The following are a few interesting facts concerning the condition of the hospital: total patients admitted 822, of which 486 were surgical cases and 336 were medical cases; there were 62 births and 47 deaths, many of the latter being from influenza. The hospital's work to the extent of $2,702.60. This sum represents the treatment of free patients which is paid for at the regular rate would have yielded up this sum of money. This hospital of course, having no endowment has to pay for everything it gets out of its current revenues. That the hospital is well managed is shown by the fact that it has not paid for $5,000.00 in surgical dressings, medication and hospital supplies.

The board of Directors passed a resolution highly commending the sisters for their careful management of the hospital and for the success they brought to the work during the year. In estimating this work it must always be kept in mind that the sisters themselves draw no compensation whatsoever for the services rendered.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Viney Celebrate Golden Wedding At Their Home In This City.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Viney, 463 N. Washington street celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on last Monday surrounded by their children and grand children.
Mrs. Viney nee Katherine Fenlon was born April 18th, 1845 in County Cork, Ireland and at the age of five

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES VINEY, years came to this country with her parents and settled in Janesville. Mr. Viney was born May 24th, 1844 in Malden Bradley, Vermont, England and came to Canada with his parents in 1852. He lived in Canada one year and then came direct to Rock County where he has since resided, with the exception of the four years spent in Company G, 8th Wisconsin Regiment in the civil war.

Mr. Viney and Miss Fenlon were united in marriage December 25th, 1873, the ceremony taking place at St. Patrick's church in this city. Rev. Father Doyle pastor of the church at that time officiated.

Five children were born to this union: Charles J. Mrs. Elizabeth Heffner, Edward L. and Kathryn of this city and Fred of Rock Island, Ill.

PERSONAL MENTION
The Misses Alma and Martha Nolis returned Monday night from Milwaukee, where they have been visiting relatives during the Christmas holidays.

FAST FREIGHT TRAINS ON NORTHWESTERN PUT BACK IN SERVICE

Alderman J. J. Dulin Secures Renewal of Traffic On Way Freight Between This City and Chicago.

Through the efforts of Alderman J. J. Dulin two way freight Nos. 538 and 593 operating between Janesville and Chicago have been restored. The trains were taken off by Northwestern officials sometime ago and despite the many complaints of the local shippers no steps were taken to put the trains back until the matter was given to Mr. Dulin.

Several local merchants have suffered heavily by the discontinuance of the trains and one merchant reports that he has received his freight from two to three days late.

Alderman Dulin made several trips to Chicago relative to the matter and was rewarded yesterday when he received a telegram stating that the trains would be restored at once.

The discontinuing of the trains not only hurt the local merchants, but it took six families from Janesville to Harvard. When the train was taken off it was run from Chicago to Harvard and the Janesville merchandise brought to Janesville in a shuttle train at the company's convenience.

With the return of the train the merchandise will be received a great deal quicker and the families which were forced to leave Janesville from this city will return to Janesville.

home on North Washington street, returned home yesterday.

Mrs. Gray Morray of Chicago returned Sunday. She has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Canon, for the past ten days. Mr. Morray returned the day after Christmas.

CONSTRUCTION AT PLANT CONTINUES DESPITE WEATHER

FREEZING TEMPERATURE AND SNOW ARE ONLY SLIGHT
DRAWBACKS TO WORK-ERS AT GENERAL MO-TORS COMPANY.

PROGRESS IS RAPID

Office Nearly Completed—Steel Work
One-third Finished—Two Large Boilers Installed—Erection of Giant Smoke-stack Began.

Although hampered to some extent by the inclement weather of the past seven days, work on the construction of the first unit of the new General Motors company plant in Springfield is proceeding at most surprising speed. The masonry work is fast nearing completion and unless weather conditions prevent it will in all probability be ready for occupancy about the middle of January.

Up until the recent severe weather began Contractor J. P. Cullen had a force of approximately 175 men at work on the plant, but he has been obliged to lay off a number of workmen for a few weeks so that the force now numbers approximately a hundred men. The masonry work on the building has been necessarily curtailed to a large extent to allow the steel workers to proceed with the big task of installing the frame work for the skylights and roof.

Already practically one-third of the steel frame has been erected and work in this department is being rushed at a rapid rate. With two large derricks constantly in use to raise the heavy steel beams into position the building is fast assuming a definite shape. The network of steel which now covers nearly one-third of the building serves to give a great impression of the spaciousness of the unit which will be completed. The work of the steel experts is perhaps the most interesting sight at the plant at the present time and visitors on the grounds can get a good view of the work of laying an asphalt floor throughout the entire building has just begun and a large force of men is engaged in this task. Large asphalt blocks, twelve inches long, six inches wide, and two inches thick are being laid on a bed of concrete. It was first planned to have only a concrete floor, but the officers of the company later decided on the construction of an asphalt floor over the concrete one so as to make the building modern in appearance.

The large office building which adjoins the east end of the first unit is nearly completed and work on the interior will probably begin within the course of the next two weeks. The cornice has been laid on the east side of the structure and the masonry work on the other three sides is well advanced. The office building is divided into two floors while the factory unit consists of only one floor. Windows have been installed on the first floor of the office structure.

On the north side of the building a large force of masons and their helpers are busy while on the other two sides the masonry work is about completed. Two large boilers, modern in every respect, have just been installed in a small addition which adjoins the main building on the west end. Work on the erection of a 150-foot smoke-stack, as high as the one recently installed by the Jamesville Electric company, at its fourth avenue plant, was begun last week and is being pushed to its now about thirty feet in height and is growing daily.

The appearance of a line of box-cars on the same track on the north side of the building, the numerous workmen about the plant, the large pile of building material, all go to make up the spirit of industry which is so manifest about the plant. The landings in its present stage is a sight worth seeing and no doubt scores of people will visit the plant tomorrow, New Year's day, to see the progress which has been made.

KRUEGER EXAMINED IN FEDERAL COURT

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

La Crosse, Wis., Dec. 30.—Lester Krueger, Owen (Wls.) draft evader, who fought a posse at his farm home, was examined by the local registration board here today to determine if he was a willful deserter from the army. He asked God whether he should go to war, and the Almighty appeared in a vision and told him not to join the army.

Krueger also claimed that people in Clark county called him a pro-German and one night he was shot at from ambush on the road between Owen and his farm.

MYERS THEATRE
"Nothing But The Truth"
Is announced for presentation at the Myers Theatre, Friday evening, January 2. This is the very first time that had a laughing career of over 440 performances at the Longacre Theatre in New York, and it has lost none of its funny qualities by repeated presentation throughout the land. By all means go to see the result of telling the truth, even if you can't get ten thousand dollars for doing so. You will get an evening of clean, wholesome laughter by going and see the worth something in these days of high cost, etc. If New York laughed at this play—we certainly can take a chance at it. Why not?

APOLLO

The Navy Girls

A lively, varied and entertaining program will be given here tomorrow evening on the Lyceum course by the Navy Girls, an organization which bears its name from the fact that it consists of the presentation of a costume of national novelties featuring the rollicking songs of the sea. The entertainment moves from opening to closing without a single intermission, beginning with the Gypsy numbers presented in costume there follows a program of vocal numbers, instrumental solos, piano, violin and solo songs and clever readings, together with a unique "movie" sketch in pantomime. This part of the entertainment is given by the girls in evening dress.

The big feature of the whole entertainment and a fitting climax to the evening's program is a Nautical Sketch which introduces the girls as members of the U. S. Navy. The girls did such splendid work entertaining the soldiers that the Redpath Lyceum engaged them for an extended Lyceum tour. Those who hear the girls here will be given the same entertainment as was presented in the cantonments.

CAINVILLE CENTER

Cainville Center, Dec. 30.—The funeral of Miss Anna Anderson was held at the home of the deceased, Dec. 30, at 10 o'clock. The pall bearers were Frank Bennett, Paul Grasse, Elliott Fraser, Lewis Woodstock Leslie Townsend and Mike McGuire. Song service was rendered by J. S. Troon and Mr. Van Pool of Jamesville.

Neill Gardner spent the week end in Delavan, visiting her brother, Harry, and family. Miss Annie Hopkins of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Emma Squires of Ames, Ia., were called here by the death of Mrs. Warren Andrew.

All the family of Will Letts are sick with the influenza. Their many friends hope for a speedy recovery.

The weekly Prayer Meeting will be held with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Andrew, Dec. 31, at 7 o'clock.

2nd. A good attendance is desired, as there is quite a lot of work on hand. John Rowald spent a few days, last week, at home.

The Red Cross work shop here is open each Tuesday and Thursday; and it is hoped that a large number of workers will be present each day. There is so much work for willing fingers to do, and such urgent calls are being made to every Red Cross organization.

Personals

Frank Gardner leaves the hardware department of the Grange store today, and next week will go to Chicago, where he has accepted a position as a sales manager. He is leaving for Chicago, Bartlett and Company, a large hardware firm. Patrons of the store will miss Mr. Gardner's genial personality.

Most of his friends wish him every success in his new line of work and feel that he will more than "make good."

Terry Durner arrived home from Camp Grant where he was mustered into the service, last Friday evening. He had been stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss.

Miss Marion Howe, who has served for two months probation in the nursing profession at the Mendota hospital, is the guest of friends here.

LID ON DANCE HALLS TILTED BY COUNCIL

CITY COUNCIL VOTES TO ALLOW DANCES UNTIL AFTER NEW YEARS—BAN GOES ON THURSDAY, JANU-ARY 2ND.

BUCKMASTER FOR IT

Lifting of Ban for Holidays Favored by City Health Officer—Alderman Duluth Addresses Council.

Jamesville dance lovers may enjoy their favorite pastime over New Years. This agreement was reached by the members of the city council at their regular meeting last evening. The ban on dance halls will go into effect Thursday morning, January 2nd. On the recommendation of Doctor Buckmaster the dance halls were allowed to remain open until after New Years. The verdict of the Health Officer regarding the placing of the ban on dance halls was endorsed by the council and it was only after Dr. Buckmaster agreed that the dance halls were allowed to remain open.

Included with the holiday spirit Alderman Welsh introduced a resolution endorsing the rules of the Health Officer thereby allowing the young folks of this city to dance on New Years. The resolution was presented in favor of the move and it was passed unanimously.

When the meeting opened all of the aldermen with the exception of Alderman Hanson were present. The minutes were read and approved.

W. J. Dougherty representing the Rockford Interurban and the Jamesville Traction companies addressed the council relative to an agreement reached between the companies and the board of Public Works relative to the new bridge on Jackson street. It was agreed by both parties that the companies release all of their rights on the bridge and that on seventy-two hours notice their tracks can be torn down and the railroad by the city. It was further agreed that the council would take the necessary steps at any time the interurban cars should desire to operate on West Milwaukee, Franklin and any other streets. The resolution was adopted.

Alderman Welsh introduced an order asking that J. P. Baker be paid as an election clerk his original pay voucher being lost. The order was agreed to and the city should the original order ever be cashed. The order was allowed.

Alderman Welsh presented the monthly bills and salary very good and that they be allowed.

Alderman Welsh then introduced the dance hall resolution which was passed without any discussion.

Alderman Jones moved that the board of Victor B. Henning as city clerk be accepted. Alderman Jones moved that the claim of Eril Peterson against the city of Jamesville be disallowed.

Alderman Roy Horn of the first ward then addressed the council and in opening his address he stated that he was full of suggestions to make several which would be good.

He spoke of the gratings on the downtown streets and the manner in which dirt was allowed to accumulate under them and asked that the city employ men to clean the gratings. He then spoke of the practice of dumping garbage on the ice at the Gas Pond and requested that the Highway committee investigate that matter.

Alderman Horn spoke of the proposed growth of the city and told in detail of the many things that would have to be done in order to care for the influx of people. His address was timely and well received by all present.

Alderman John J. Duluth then addressed the council on civic betterment and gave one of the finest talks ever heard in the council chamber.

He spoke of the great problem that confronted the city with the coming of a General Motors company and urged all of the aldermen to do all in their power to assist the company and to vote and act at all times for the benefit of the city.

Mr. Duluth spoke of the coming of the new plant and what it meant to Jamesville. He stated it was the best thing that has ever happened in Jamesville and probably the greatest that would ever happen for many years.

He discussed the man's improvement needed in the city and emphatically stated that although it could not be accomplished at once he hoped that he would never be a member of the council when any measure that would benefit Jamesville.

In closing Mr. Duluth urged the aldermen to put their best efforts into the work; he assured them his hearty co-operation and told of the belief in a new area of prosperity for Jamesville.

John Griffin representing the Brotherhood of Engineers and Pipefitters addressed the council and thanked the aldermen on behalf of his organization for allowing them to hold their annual dancing party this evening.

Alderman Horn introduced a resolution requesting that the City Attorney go to Rock Island with the plans of the Jackson street bridge to present them to the government engineers. The resolution was adopted.

Alderman Duluth moved that the liquor license of E. B. Connors, 203 W. Milwaukee street be transferred to Helser and Chevrolet. The license was purchased the saloon. Mr. Duluth told of the ill health of Mr. Connors being the reason for the request. The license was ordered transferred.

On motion of Alderman Duluth the council adjourned at nine-forty five o'clock.

Bristol.—Five large business houses were destroyed by fire, the loss being estimated at $1,500,000.

Amsterdam, Dec. 30.—Striking miners in the Dusseldorf district have fought a pitched battle with the soldiers protecting the mines according to advices received here. The encounter resulted in several persons being killed and wounded before the troops finally overpowered and arrested the miners.

Capture Perm.
Paris.—Russian troops have captured Perm from the Bolsheviks, taking 18,000 prisoners, according to announcements today.

Proclaim A Republic.
London.—According to dispatches from Danzig and Posen, it is supposed to be a republic in Poland with Ignace Jan Paderewski as president.

Blow Up Monument.
Cork.—Sinn Feiners after the announcement of election results, blew up the monument erected to the Cork soldiers who had fought in the South African war.

She was startled a little as Batterson nudged her forward. She went to the door and opened it on her new career to make her public debut with the all-important "How do you do?"

She saw before her the drawing room in a weird light. Beyond it was a fiercely radiant fog and beyond that an agglomeration of faces—the mass of tomato cans that she was not going to be afraid of.

And she was not afraid. She was curious to study them. She was eager to remember her lines. And she remembered them. Then came more or less far apart and each evoked from her mind the appropriate answer. She made never a slip, and yet she began to realize that Mr. Eldon seemed unhappy.

At length she realized that the audience was strangely quiet. A sense of vaulty emptiness oppressed her. She went on with her lines. She understood at last that she was getting no laughs. She was not provoking those punctuating roars that Sheila Kemble brought forth. The audience had evidently had a hard week.

She decided that she must be playing too quietly; she quickened her tempo and threw more vivacity into her manner. She moved briskly about the scene, to Eldon's bewilderment. He seemed unable to find her.

She went through to the bitter end and spoke every line. But the audience was not with her for a moment. She used all her intellect to find the secret of its pleasure, but she could not surprise it. She tried harder and harder, acted with the intense devotion of a wrestling bout, but she could not score a point.

The company looked worried and tagged. The audience would not rise to anything—humor, pathos, thrill. When the play was over everyone seemed to avoid her.

She rubbed off her make-up and resumed her miff. As she walked out

DON'T FUSS WITH MUSTARD PLASTERS!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole. Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister. Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

Soldiers of France in Greatest of World's Sacrifice

Soldiers of France have led in the world's sacrifice of blood and treasure that liberty and democracy should not perish from the earth.

The world will forever owe France a debt of gratitude for this well as for an invaluable remedy for stomach, liver and intestinal disorders which its peasants have been using with reported marvelous results.

The ingredients are now imported and sold in this country by Geo. H. Mayr, prominent Chicago chemist, under the name of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. J. P. Baker and Druggists everywhere.

KIDNEY TROUBLE NOT EASILY RECOGNIZED

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

An examining physician for one of the prominent life insurance companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

We find that Swamp-Root is strictly a herbal compound and we would advise our readers who feel in need of such a remedy to give it a trial. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Janesville Daily Gazette.

PETEY DINK—PETEY CERTAINLY MADE A FINE START.

on the darkened stage she saw Batterson. He tried to escape, but she checked him.

"Tell me frankly, Mr. Batterson, what was the matter with my performance tonight?"

"Come to the office Monday and we'll have a little talk."

"And I'll get my notice."

"I didn't say that."

"What would you honestly advise me to do?"

"I understand that you don't have to act. Go home and get married."

"I won't."

"Then go home and don't get married."

"I won't go home."

"There's no other place to go. Good night."

He walked off and she was left alone. She had the stage to herself.

"Go Home and Get Married."

She stood in the big void and felt alien—forever alien. She shook her head. This place was not for her. She had been tried in the balance and found wanting. She wondered if there were anywhere a balance that she could bring down.

She dreaded the forlorn journey home to her dreary room. As she stepped out of the door someone moved forward with uplifted hat. It was Tom Duane. He looked very spick and span. His smile illumined the dull street and his hand clasped hers with a saving strength. It lifted her from the depths like a rope let down from the sky.

Daphne's hair had been more content if Duane had been Clay Winburn. It was Clay's duty to be there at such a time, at all times.

Of course he did not know that this night was to be crucial for her, but he should have known. Mr. Duane knew. It never occurred to Daphne that Reben had warned Duane of the debut of his protégée and had invited him—in fact, had dared him—to watch the test of her abilities.

All she knew was that Duane was proffering homage and smiles and the paces of courtship. Daphne might have failed to gain the hearts of her audience, for all her toil, but here was a heart that was hers without effort.

Perhaps Duane was her career. He was at least an audience that she could sway. And she was miserably in need of some one that would pay her the tribute of submission.

So now when he said, "Won't you let me take you home in my car?" she could hardly snub a heaven-sent messenger.

She said, "Thank you—you're very kind—but—" Oh, all right! And she bounded in.

When Duane said, "You must be hungry after all that hard work. Aren't you?" she said, "Yes, I guess I am a little."

When he said, "Where shall we eat?" she answered, "Anywhere."

"Claremont?" he suggested.

This startled her, gave her pause. Yet there was something piquant about the proposal.

Satan or Raphael had whispered to her an invitation to revisit the scene of her late humiliation with Clay. With Duane's toadie purse there would be no danger of a snub from the waiters; with his own car there would be no risk of footing it home.

Then an imp of mischief spoke for her and said, "All right!"

Duane told the chauffeur and the car shot like a javelin from the lighter street into the deep forest-night of Central park.

What would Clay say? But, after all, he had failed her in a crisis. Perhaps he had turned his heart elsewhere. Men were impatient, vindictive, fickle.

When Claremont was reached and Dugge handed Miss Kip out he noted that her hand was hotter than his own and while he was attacking it, her face was flushed and her lips parted as if with excitement. He assumed that the speed of the ride and the tang of adventure were to blame.

While the waiters were serving the supper and while he was attacking it with the frank appetite of honest hunger she recounted the evening's disaster as calmly as if it were the story of somebody else. In fact, she was standing off and regarding herself with the eyes of an alien. We change so fast that the persons we were yesterday are already strangers, and their acts the acts of distant relatives. Her calm was really the numbness of shock. The anguish would come tomorrow.

"I can't understand myself at all," Daphne said. "I went through every one of the motions, but I couldn't reach the audience once. I was like a singer with a bad cold singing in a foreign language—you don't know what the song is all about, but you know that it never quite gets on the key."

"You mustn't be discouraged."

"Oh, yes, I must! I couldn't be an actress in a thousand years. Mr. Batterson told me so himself."

"Duane felt the truth of this, but it hurt him to have her feel it. It offended his chivalry to realize how impolite fate could be to so pretty a girl. He hated to see her reduced to the necessity of proving how plucky she could be. He tried to find an escape for her. He said:

"You're far too good for the stage."

"I don't believe that for a minute," she protested. "But I've got to find something I can do."

"May I help you to decide?"

"If you only would! But I'm getting to be a nuisance."

"You are—a—to me you are a—well, you're not a nuisance."

He dared not tell her what she was, especially as the waiter had set the bill at his elbow and was standing off in an attitude of ill-concealed impatience for the tip, which he knew would be large. Mr. Duane always gave the normal ten per cent and a bit extra. He tipped wisely but not too well, knowing that an extravagant tip wins a waiter's contempt almost more than none at all. The head waiter fairly roared "Good night!" and almost gave them a blessing.

The starter had Mr. Duane's car waiting for him at the curb and lifted his hat with one hand as he smuggled a quarter away with the other. He stepped in to lay the linen laprobe over their knees with reverence, closed the door exquisitely and murmured, "Good night!"

The car was an aristocrat; it floated from the curb with a swanlike sweep.

Daphne thought of Clay and herself plodding homeward. She seemed to see them or their wraiths staggering disconsolately along. She felt very sorry for them. Here was a chance to save one of them—both of them, in fact; for in taking her financial burden from Clay's shoulders she would be twice strengthening him. It she were to accept Duane as her husband then her problems would be solved—and Clay would be free of her.

To be Mrs. Tom Duane; to step into the society of society; to lift her father and mother from a position of meekness in Cleveland to a post of distinction in New York; to solve at once all the hateful, loathsome, belittling riddles of money; to be the beloved and fêted and idolized wife and mistress of this young American grand duke; to buy that impossible tressure, or better, to live in a New York palace instead of a flat; to go about in her own limousine instead of an occasional taxicab; to be fortune's darling instead of a member of the working classes, struggling along with bent neck under a yoke beside a discouraged laboring man!

She stared at her image in the mirror.

He murmured, "Don't forget." She murmured, "I won't." Both said "Good night." Then the doorman gathered her in and hoisted her to her lowly cry. It was very different from where she would have gone as Mrs. Duane.

But when she was in her room she tore his card to pieces—after she had looked at it. She stared at her image in the mirror. She hated what she saw there.

She vowed to break her promise to Tom Duane. She vowed to forget his telephone number. But it danced about in the dark long after she had closed her eyes.

Dinner Stories

There were visitors at the door, and as mother was not just ready to make her appearance, Tommy was told to let them in and show them into the dining room.

He did, and, while they all waited for mother to finish doing up her back hair, the small boy sat very still and embarrassed.

Presently, seeing the visitors taking sly glances around the cosy little room, he remarked politely: "Well, what do you think of our furniture?"

"There were two actresses in an early play of mine," said an author, "both very beautiful; but the leading actress was thin. She quarreled one day at rehearsal with the other lady, and she ended the quarrel by saying, 'Remember, please, that I am the star.'"

"Yes, I know you're the star," the other retorted, "going with an amused smile the leading actress's long, slim figure, 'but you'd look better, my dear, if you were a little meteor.'"

One of the U. S. soldiers overseas was driving a four-mule team with rations towards the trenches and, losing his way, was rumbling along an old road that cut across into the German lines.

"I was going along," he said, "when a doughboy jumped up and waved both hands at me to go back. 'What's the matter?' I asked him, talking natural, and he mumbled at me, 'You're going right toward the German lines. For God's sake, turn around and go back, and don't speak above a whisper.' 'Whisper, hell,' I says to him, kind o' mad, 'I gotta turn four mules around!'"

Extry! All About the Great New Year of Prosperity!

WISCONSIN HAS HAD BUT ONE WHIG GOVERNOR

The inauguration of Gov. Philipp for a third term serves to call attention to the unusual circumstances attending the election. In 1851, of Wisconsin's only Whig governor. During our territorial period, according to a worker in the State Historical Library at Madison, to be an "old time Whig" was regarded a symbol of respectability throughout the United States. Wisconsin, however, as a frontier community, was strongly Democratic, and until the slavery issue gave birth to the Republican party, in the early fifties, the Democratic party in the state always possessed a heavy popular majority. A respectable proportion of the voters, nevertheless, were Whigs. In 1851, when Nelson Dewey was serving his second term, the Democrats nominated Don A. J. Upham, a popular Milwaukee lawyer, to succeed him. The Democratic nomination was considered as equivalent to election and no one desired the barren honor of nomination at the hands of the Whigs. The first candidate fixed upon by the party managers declined to serve; the next, Leonard J. Furwell, a wealthy Madison manufacturer, died the town when it seemed likely the nomination would come to him. He was persuaded to accept, however, and to the surprise of both Whigs and Democrats his great personal popularity carried him to victory by a majority of 507 votes. With this exception all of the Democratic ticket was elected. Gov. Furwell's administration was an excellent one, and the career of her one Whig governor constitutes a creditable part in the political annals of Wisconsin.

Protection Needed. It is self-evident that manufacturers in this country cannot compete with those of neutral countries because of the heavier taxes at home. Some plan must be devised to prevent the flooding of the United States with products made abroad. Nations which have not suffered heavily because of the war. This must be worked out before the revenue bill can become a law.—Washington correspondence New York Herald.

SHALL WISCONSIN HAVE A MEMORIAL HISTORY?

The share borne by Wisconsin in the war for democracy is a source of pride to every citizen of Bugaredon. Already in many communities plans are being laid to give concrete expression to this pride and gratitude by erecting a suitable memorial to their wartime heroes. This is as it should be; but the state of Wisconsin should not omit to testify in like fashion its sense of obligation to those who served it in the great war. No more appropriate method of expressing this feeling can be found than the preparation of a history which shall record for the benefit both of the present and of the future generations the splendid deeds of our men and women during the last two years. The State Historical Society and the state and county war history commissions have already collected much of the material for the writer of such a history. The logical outcome of this work of preparation is the publication of a comprehensive history which shall set forth the war record of every Wisconsin soldier and every community. Now is the best time for doing this work. It is to be done the coming legislature must make suitable provision for it. It will do so if the people make it clear that they really desire a memorial history of Wisconsin in the war.

The average American is open-minded.

American business is conducted by true Americans of vision, open-minded men who believe in their country and strive to meet their country's needs. The men in the packing industry are no exception to the rule.

The business of Swift & Company has grown as the nation has progressed. Its affairs have been conducted honorably, efficiently, and economically, reducing the margin between the cost of live stock and the selling price of dressed meat, until today the profit is only a fraction of a cent a pound—too small to have any noticeable effect on prices.

The packing industry is a big, vital industry—one of the most important in the country. Do you understand it?

Swift & Company presents facts in the advertisements that appear in this paper. They are addressed to every open-minded person in the country.

A Happy New Year

To those whom we call our customers—and to those others whom we hope to call customers before another twelfth-month rolls by—we wish the happiest, good-luckiest New Year ever!

The satisfactory business which has been ours during the past year, in spite of the extraordinary conditions which have prevailed, is good evidence of the success of our store policies. It has been our aim to give you an efficient, courteous, attentive service, in the face of the severe hardships which the war placed upon us. For the coming year it will be our endeavor to improve and progress, so as to deserve your custom, as we have in the past.

MORRIS MILLER

Many good stories were swapped at the annual meeting of the National League. The bringing together of seven former managers of the Phillies especially was provocative of some fine yarns.

The talk switched around to the time that Horace Fogel selected Charley Doan to manage the club after he procured control of the majority interest in 1909. Fogel, however, was not always an admirer of Doan, and when the little brick-kicker catcher came to the Phillies in 1911, Fogel, then a Quaker City scribe, made life miserable for him.

"This mule, Doan, won't do; he's too light," Horace would rave in his paper days after days. "I'd like to see the Gump of Philadelphia put Doan in the game and keep a catcher like Roth on the bench."

But Horace's chief obsession was the size of Charley Doan's bat. "He swings a bat bigger than himself," he can be overheard to say to his telegraph pole. "I did it to save my jaw. Kid Gibson would bust me in the jaw if I took another. Every time I went to bat the corner of his eye, and if I didn't take the big one he would have hit me sure. He said he'd make me hit with it or die in the attempt."

"He used to come around like a father, and anybody that talked back to him had a mess of trouble on his hands. I remember one time while we were training down in Savannah when he gave Phil Cullen, our pitcher, an awful beating. The Phil was coming with a reporter and thought nobody was noticing when he came in at night. Gibson came into the reporter's room about 11 o'clock one night and asked for the Phil. The reporter said, 'Oh, he's around the hotel somewhere.'"

"Is he?" said the Kid. "I guess I'll sit up and wait for him." He took a chair and laid his slapping strap over his knees. He and the Phil were breezed in. The Kid grabbed him like a father might take hold of a five-year-old, and he waited Cullen until that strap until the Philder begged for mercy.

Hunting out scattered groups of "Heinies" in New Man's Land furnished real entertainment to true American sportsmen before the war. The following tale of a New York sportsman is typical:

Capt. Joe Brooks, fisherman and star of the New York Yankees, was in the city of New York in charge of a raiding party. He found a group of Germans huddled in a small room half filled with water. He named them out as though they had been found. When the party reached headquarters and exhibited their prisoners, Capt. Brooks, a giant in size and strength, was carrying a small German under his arm. He set the fellow down and surveyed him critically. Then turning to the colonel he said dryly:

"Colonel, in America we usually toss these fellows back into the stream."

Capt. Brooks is known in the east for his work on the football teams of Williams and Colgate each year. At St. Nicholas, he was a champion in a hockey star. He weighs 210 pounds and is a machine on the ice.

Howard Eaton, the Pittsburgh Pirates' modest shortstop, has been given an extra day's vacation. Eaton is back home among the folks, where he will spend the winter. He has notified Manager Hugo Bezdek of the Pirates of his intentions, which is taken as a hint that he wants that shortstop job next season.

Hank pinned the bee on Ed for fair

Ed never could see any show but a big hunk of oversweet tobacco. "You take this plug of Real Gravelly," says Hank. "Take a small chew—two or three squares. See how long it holds its pure, rich taste. If you don't admit that Gravelly gives you tobacco satisfaction without extra cost, I'll buy your plug for a month." Hanged if Ed didn't walk in next day, grab off a plug of Gravelly and throw down his money just like a little man!

BRINGING UP FATHER

CHANDLER'S GOBS WILL MEET SUCKERS FRIDAY

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Champaign, Ill., Dec. 31.—The Great Lakes basketball squad will spend this week on the Illinois floor in daily practice with the Illinois team. The squad's five is headed by Bill Chandler, the famous Badger star, and is expected to be strong. The tussle with the Jackies is expected to be a close one for the conference campaign. The Gobs defeated Wisconsin at Great Lakes last Saturday night.

WEST SIDE ALLEYS TO OPEN TOMORROW

Bowling fans will be interested to know that Henry Robbins has leased the West Side alleys for the 1919 season. The opening of the alleys tomorrow New Year's day. The six alleys have all been placed in the pink of condition and no doubt some high scores will be racked up tomorrow. Manager Robbins is anxious to form a league and steps will be taken shortly for the organization of one.

TERRY MCGOVERN DIES FROM RESULT OF FIGHT

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Boston, Dec. 31.—"Terry McGovern" of Philadelphia, a boxer known in private life as Frank G. Leo, who was injured in a match last night with Frankie Britt of New Bedford, died at the city hospital today. His skull was fractured by hitting the floor when he was felled by his opponent in the sixth round. Britt was arrested early today at his home in New Bedford, and was brought to this city for arraignment.

WISCONSIN TRIUMPHS OVER NORMAL 39-18

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Milwaukee, Dec. 31.—After losing the first half by two points, the University of Wisconsin basketball team beat the Normal team last night with the old Badger's 39-18 and triumphed over Milwaukee.

BELOIT AGAIN SCENE OF SHOOTING FRAY

Young Mexican Shot and Seriously Wounded Sunday Evening—Conduct Wide Search For Assassin Who Escaped on Interurban.

Throughout three states police officials are searching today for Gargito Contreras, a Beloit Mexican, who it is believed shot and seriously wounded another Mexican, Ramon Balderas, at Camp Number 2 on upper Pleasant street in Beloit at six-thirty Sunday evening. The victim of the shooting may lie in the Emergency hospital at Beloit with a bullet wound in his left forearm and one in the left side of his body. It is believed that he will live unless complications set in.

LAD WITH CRUTCHES DELIVERS HIS PAPERS

Stewart Bolton, aged twelve, daily delivers one hundred and eight papers for the Daily Gazette on crutches. Through the snow, up hill and down hill young Bolton goes and usually is one of the first carriers to report his route completed. Stewart walks with the aid of two crutches, but expects to be able to walk without them in a few weeks.

Young Bolton in company with several other lads was skating on Bunker Hill Sunday afternoon. In some manner while he was going down the hill his ski turned, spraining his right leg in his fall. He was immediately given medical attention. Although his injury handicapped him, he refused to let a substitute carry his route and daily may be seen delivering his papers throughout the down town streets.

STREET CAR STRIKE IS NOT SANCTIONED

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Milwaukee, Dec. 31.—Union labor is not in sympathy with the proposed strike of motormen and conductors in the employ of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company, according to Frank J. Weber, one of the leading officials of the Wisconsin federation of labor. Mr. Weber says if a strike did occur, the union would be able to secure plenty of union men to run the cars.

DANIELS ASKS 250,000 MEN FOR NAVY IN 1919

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, Dec. 31.—Secretary Daniels asked the house naval committee today to provide for a temporary increased naval personnel of 250,000 men for the year beginning next July. He also asked for a permanent peace time personnel to be determined after a detailed study of requirements for ships to be made during the summer under the direction of Admiral Benson. He also sought authority to transfer 1,000 officers among the reserve force to the permanent naval establishment. Mr. Daniels also asked the committee to write into the appropriation bill a provision for permanent war time pay increases for enlisted men. This would give increases of $6 to $16 a month over the pre-war scale, making the pay range from $35 to $51 a month.

INFLUENZA CAUSE OF NEARLY SIX THOUSAND DEATHS IN MINNESOTA

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
St. Paul, Dec. 31.—Influenza caused about six thousand deaths in Minnesota this year, according to figures made public today by the state board of health. Incomplete records show 118,597 cases of influenza and 5,822 deaths have officially been reported this year. Health officials state that a great many cases have not been reported to the state.

New Years Greetings.

Health. Happiness. Peace.

The coming year will indeed be a memorable one in the history of this country and we wish all our patients and prospective patients

A Happy and Prosperous New Year

The end of the war is assured and it is the duty of every patriotic citizen to see to it that he is as near ONE HUNDRED PER CENT HEALTHY as possible. HEALTHY MEN AND WOMEN are needed by their country and HAPPINESS goes hand in hand with HEALTH.

If you wish to be HAPPY you should therefore be HEALTHY. Start the New Year right by investigating the wonderful science of Chiropractic. This drugless science is a boon to humanity and the coming year will see thousands of ailments added to its ranks. Chiropractic is the knowledge—not theory or belief—of philosophy of cause of disease. The science of knowing how and the art of ability to adjust it. The human brain is the dynamo where life currents are concentrated. The spinal cord and nerves are the purveyors of this mental force. If brain absorbs spinal cord conveys, nerves transmit and tissues, organs and viscera receive this life current, health is the result. Obstruct the transmission of current and disease is the result. Body plus life equals health. Body minus life equals death. Disease is the abnormal fluctuation between these two quantities caused by varying degrees of pressure upon nerves interfering with transmission. The Chiropractor knows why, where and how to adjust the pressure to permit currents to continue transmission for the purpose of reconstructing disease to health. BLACKHAWK DIVISION SLATED FOR RETURN 333rd Field Artillery Already En Route For United States. Will Arrive January 6th.

The 36th or Black Hawk division is coming back and although they have not had a chance to participate in the fight they have made an excellent record while overseas.

It was announced yesterday that the 333rd Field Artillery has already sailed from Great Britain and will arrive in New York on January 6th. There are a number of local boys in the unit among them Major Brewer, a former employee of the city. The 311th Field Signal Battalion has already arrived in this country and more units of the division are expected to leave for the United States at any time.

With the exception of the machine gun battalions and the 344th Infantry no other units of the 36th division were in the battle. It was previously reported that the 332nd and 33rd Machine Gun battalions were in action and it is not known whether they have been returned to the 36th or not.

The 344th Infantry which also consists of a number of Janesville boys was transferred in its entirety to the 37th Division and are now with the army of occupation.

JACKS AND MARINES SET FOR BIG BATTLE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 31.—Interest of the football world is centered on the big game to be played here tomorrow, New Year's day, between Great Lakes sailor eleven and the Mare Island marines. Odds favor the Gobs but the fighting marines may spring a big surprise. They have imported three players from the Atlantic coast and are going to put up a hard battle.

THE MEN IN CLASS A1

A sound, healthy man is never a back number. A man can be as vigorous and able at seventy as at twenty. Condition, not years, puts you in the discard. A system weakened by overwork and careless living brings old age prematurely. The bodily functions are impaired and unpleasant symptoms appear. The weak spot is generally the kidneys. Keep them clean and in proper working condition and you will generally find yourself in Class A1. Take GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules periodically and your system will always be in working order. Your spirits will be invigorated, your muscles supple, your mind active, and your body capable of hard work.

Don't wait until you have been rejected. Commence to be a first-class man now. Go to your druggist at once. Get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are made of the pure, original, imported Haarlem Oil—the kind your great-grandfather used. Two capsules each day will keep you toned up and feeling great. Money refunded if they do not help you. Remember to ask for the imported GOLD MEDAL Brand. In three sizes, sealed packages.

COLD WAVE COMING. BEST BE PREPARED

Weather, Wisconsin.—Unsettled weather tonight and Wednesday; probably snow flurries in east and south portions tonight; colder tonight and in east and south portions Wednesday. Cold wave in southwest portions.

Get out the old fur mittens. Dig up the warm cap from the depths of the closet. Haul out the muffler, vest, or coat of last winter.

Put the overshoes in a handy place and knock the crust from the snow shovel. Tighten the storm windows and batten the doors. Snow and a cold wave are on the way.

Two or three acres of barometer have been spied by the weather man. Snow is on the way from Missouri, with a moderate drop in temperature, perhaps to 10 above, due to hit tonight. Another troublesome disturbance centers in Utah, also headed in this direction.

But the suspicious eye of the weather man is cocked in the direction of the big northwest, where Poy Winter has landed like a thousand of brick, temperature dropping 35 degrees in a few hours. Battleford, Sask., reports 22 below zero, and other points averaged nearly as cold.

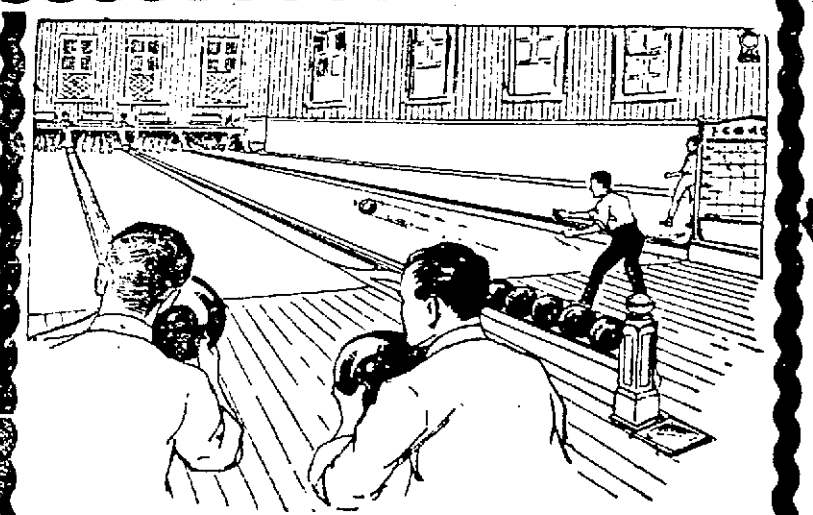

Just when this "low" area will hit Janesville, it at all, has not been determined. But all three wild, with winter cubs apparently are headed in this direction, the Missouri brute to land tonight.

Get out the woolen socks.

TELEGRAPH OPERATORS WILL RECEIVE INCREASE

Washington, Dec. 31.—Increased wages, effective tomorrow for employees of all departments of telegraph systems under government control except employees at "non functional" offices and messengers, were announced today by Postmaster General Burleson. Employees in service more than a year and a half get an increase of ten per cent, and those employed less than a year and a half five per cent.

True Respectability.
Having the courage to live within one's means is respectability.

Brodhead News

Brodhead, Dec. 30.—Mr. and Mrs.
 William Hahn were given a real surprise Saturday evening when about thirty of their friends dropped in on them, bringing well filled baskets of edibles. A beautiful 6-3 dinner was served and an evening of pleasure passed quickly. The occasion was the twenty-sixth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Hahn.

Mr. and Mrs. Hahn entertained a number of little girl friends for her daughter, Belle, and cousin, Gladys Blunt, on Saturday evening. Games and music were called for to pass quickly, and with sumptuous refreshments and music a delightful time was had.

After being closed for two weeks
 on account of the influenza and because of the Christmas holidays, the schools reopened today.

Mrs. Ames Rindy was called to Whitewater Saturday by the illness of her mother, Mrs. M. Dorr.

Miss Maud Green, who has been home for the Christmas vacation, left Saturday for Hartford, where she is engaged in teaching.

Rev. G. N. Foster of Albany was in Brodhead Saturday to conduct burial services for Charles Olson.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newman were in Juda Saturday to attend the funeral of the former's brother, Clyde Newman.

Francis Gombur, Mr. McGoon and Charles Luchner, who enlisted some months ago have returned, having been honorably discharged.

Mrs. Mary Pankhurst of Albert Lea, Minn., arrived here Saturday, the guest of her sister, Mrs. William Hahn.

Miss Kathryn Durner has been numbered among the sick the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Rod Wooster were Brodhead visitors Saturday.

B. H. Roderick was a passenger to Madison Saturday.

Mr. B. H. Bouton and little son,
 Curtis, went to Janesville Saturday
 where they are guests of Mr. Bouton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H.
 Christianson.

First Half Million Sold in 3 Days

BULLETIN: This "across the counter" sale of securities DIRECT TO THE PUBLIC started Wednesday morning, Dec. 18. At 9 o'clock Friday night, Dec. 20, when the Sales Office closed for the day, over $500,000 of the Notes had been sold, and reservations of more than $60,000 additional booked. Orders came in from all parts of the State. Many intending buyers tell us they mean to invest in these 7% Notes the interest and dividend payments they will receive from other investments at the year's end.

The following detailed statement regarding this business is published to answer those questions concerning this Note issue, and the properties behind it, which have been most often asked at the sales counter during the first three days of the sale.

BACK OF THIS LOAN

Electric Railway & Light Company and Heat & Traction Company, owned by the State as one system, supply substantially all the cities and towns of the Greater Milwaukee district, with a total population of over

value of the physical properties of the companies on September 30, Wisconsin Railroad Commission, January 1, 1914, was $47,897,721

Liabilities on account of bonded notes outstanding against the company including the present issue of

$3,600,000 $31,825,690
Margin $16,072,031

Application is now pending before the Wisconsin Railroad Commission for the legal consolidation of the two companies—the purchase of Milwaukee Light, Heat & Traction properties (suburban and interurban), by The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company, the Milwaukee city company.

The two companies, as we have explained, are owned by the same people and operated as one system, serving all of the Greater Milwaukee district. Politically this district is split up into numerous cities and towns. Commercially and industrially it is one great community. Milwaukee's prosperity depends largely on the growth and prosperity of its surrounding cities and towns. Their prosperity is equally dependent on that of Milwaukee. The day is probably not far off when Milwaukee and the surrounding cities and towns will wish to be united in one great city. They could cut the cost and improve the quality of all their public services by uniting. Meanwhile, their electric services have been unified so far as possible, as a means of supplying these services at lowest possible cost. Consolidation of the two properties legally will make the consolidated system a still more efficient servant of the Greater Milwaukee district. It will hasten Milwaukee's advance toward a place among the 1,000,000-population cities of America. Nobody opposes it except the small minority who believe Milwaukee is already large enough, and that Milwaukee can afford to ignore, or even to oppose, the interests of the numerous cities and towns which surround this city.

TERRITORIES SERVED BY THE TWO COMPANIES

T. M. E. R. & L. CO.

Electric Service: City of Milwaukee.

Railway Service: City of Milwaukee and surrounding territory within the single-fare limits.

Heating Service: Downtown district, City of Milwaukee.

M. L. H. & T. Co.

Railway Service: Shorewood	Delafield	Waterford
Whitefish Bay	Oconomowoc	Rochester
Fox Point	Ixonia	Burlington
North Milwaukee	Watertown	Berryville
Wauwatosa	Hales Corners	Ives
West Allis	St. Martins	Racine
Kenosha	Cudahy	Muskego Center
Waukesha	Mukwonago	East Troy

Waukesha Beach and South Milwaukee

Note: Railway service extends to north limits of Kenosha, where connection is made with local railway service of Wisconsin Gas & Electric Company serving the City of Kenosha.

Milwaukee Light, Heat & Traction Company also furnishes electric service directly or by sale to distributing companies to all of the above communities and to the following:

Elm Grove	Hartland	Wales
Nashotah	North Lake	Genesee
New Butler	Honey Creek	Dousman

Pewaukee and several smaller communities.

RAPID GROWTH OF THE MILWAUKEE ELECTRIC UTILITIES

These affiliated companies supplying the electric utility services of Milwaukee and the Greater Milwaukee district have grown even faster than the large, rich region which they serve. Their increase in property value, in number of customers served and in value of product, has been nearly five-fold in the 22 years since their organization.

The reproduction value of the physical properties of the affiliated companies on January 1, 1897, based on the Wisconsin Railroad Commission's appraisal as of January 1, 1914, was approximately $10,000,000. On January 1, 1918, it is very close to $48,000,000—not including any going-business value (the necessary cost of creating skilled operating forces and building up huge customer lists), nor any of the companies' property holdings except those devoted to public utility service.

Future growth of the properties and the business is assured by the steadily widening field for the use of electric energy, and by the certain further expansion of the Greater Milwaukee district as one of the world's chief industrial centers.

With honorable and efficient management, under strict State regulation of service, rates, finances, earnings and accounting, this business is as solid and as well assured of continuing prosperity, to the fair limit allowed and assured by State law, as any in the State of Wisconsin. Its securities always have and do today rank with those of the best American utilities, because of the facts set forth above.

A 22-YEAR RECORD OF COMPANY EARNINGS

During the twenty-two years of their corporate life—1896 to 1918—these Companies have never failed to earn and pay on the due date every dollar of their obligations with agreed interest.

Even in 1918 (the hardest year American utility companies ever saw because State Commissioners failed to readjust rates to rising operating costs quickly enough), the Milwaukee companies have earned interest on all of their bond and note obligations, with $850,000 left over. Pending rate increases, with an expected gradual drop in the cost of coal and other supplies, promise for 1919 and afterward the regular yearly fair return to which the property is entitled under State regulation of this business. When the State assumed the right, in the public interest, to restrict utility earnings to a fair yearly return on State-appraised value, it assumed at the same time the solemn obligation, in behalf of the public's good faith, to assure the utilities that fair yearly return every year. Under the extraordinary conditions of the war year, many of the States failed to make good fully on this obligation to the utilities. It is taken for granted that with war conditions rapidly passing, the States' self-assumed obligation to the utilities, with respect to their fair yearly return on investment, will hereafter as heretofore be honorably fulfilled.

THE PRESENT ISSUE OF $3,600,000 7% 5-YEAR NOTES

Issuance and sale of this issue of Notes was approved by the Wisconsin Railroad Commission.

Proceeds of the sale are to be used in part to pay for plant additions made during 1918, in part for plant additions to be made in 1919.

This issue of Notes is a general obligation of The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company, with a prior claim on the Company's earnings which must be satisfied before a dollar of dividends can be paid in any year.

These Notes are further secured by deposit with the First Trust Company of Milwaukee, as Trustee for the Note buyers, of $4,500,000 of 40-year bonds of the Milwaukee Light, Heat & Traction Company, which bonds are owned by The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company.

The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company—the parent company—loaned a little over $4,700,000 to the Milwaukee Light, Heat & Traction Company, which the latter Company used for constructing and purchasing new property.

The Milwaukee Light, Heat & Traction Company has now repaid this loan in part by giving The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company $4,500,000 of 40-year bonds, secured by a general mortgage on its property.

These bonds pay 6% yearly interest during the first five years, 5% yearly thereafter for 35 years.

We strongly recommend the 7%, 5-year Notes to Milwaukee and Wisconsin investors. Considering their safety and their high rate of interest, we regard them as a most desirable investment for our customers and other friends here at home.

Cotton Manufacturers Meet.
The National Association of Cotton Manufacturers held its semi-annual meeting in Boston on November 1 and 2.

Resolutions on several problems of the day and the future were adopted, and the tariff matter was the first on the list, exacting demands of peace.

In its report to the convention, the resolutions committee of the association said that "men not yet old enough to recall the demoralizing conditions which existed while the Wilson tariff bill was in force from 1892 to 1895. They also vividly remember the idle mills, the army of unemployed, and the public soup houses which followed in the train of the Underwood tariff enacted in 1912. We firmly believe that free trade and a low tariff will reduce our working people to the scale of wages and of living which exist in competing countries.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

VICTORS OF CIVIL WAR HAD GRAND REVIEW
The manner in which our soldiers and sailors are being dismissed from the service contrasts strongly with the course of the government at the close of the civil war, fifty-three years ago. Then the victorious armies of Grant and Sherman were assembled at Washington and for two days Pennsylvania avenue resounded with the steady tramp of the sturdy veterans who had preserved the Union, passing in formal review before Gen. Grant and President Lincoln. The grand review was without doubt the greatest historical pageant America has ever witnessed. Some veterans who took part in it are still alive, and one of them, Colonel Pitt, of the Twenty-first Wisconsin, has recently presented his diary and other papers to the Historical library at Madison.
